THE DIAMOND SLEEVE-BUTTON.

Well, Edith?

Mrs. Montressor was sitting on a low chair where the wine-colored velvet curtains were drawn away, to admire the last faint glow of the May sunset. It was a curiously-arranged room, yet exquisitely elegant—a mixture of drawing-room, conservatory, and boudoir for the piano was half hidden in a thicket of blossoming heliotrope and roses, and books were carelessly piled around the brackets, from which leaned statuettes of glistening marble.

But Edith Montressor's tastes were peculiar, and moreover, she was a young lady who liked her own way.

She had come into the room, with her long black curls escaping carelessly from the clasp of a pearl comb, and a curious, restless light in the magnificent violet-black eyes, that were partially veiled by her long, almond-shaped lids.

Mrs. Montressor knew by one glance that something had stirred the depths of the young beauty's mind, and so she laid down her book, with the questioning look, and she softly-uttered:

"Well, Edith?"

"He has asked me to be his wife, mamma."

She sat down, giving the curls a defiant backward toss, and looked dreamily at the sunset.

"And you told him—"

"I don't love him, mamma. There's what it is!" almost passionately cried Edith. "There is a singular kind of fascination about the man, I fancy that I like him; but, mamma, did you ever hear any one speak evil of him?"

"Never, Edith; I believe him to be a model young man."

"Do you believe in instinct, mamma?"

"My love, what a strange question!"

"Well, it may be strange—it is, I suppose; and yet the subtle forewarner, deeper than wisdom, quicker than logic, which I call instinct, tells me that Ralph Pole, is a bad, heartless man!"

"Edith!"

"Oh, mamma; if I only knew—if I only could be certain that I was wronging him by the thought, I would cheerfully devote my life to atoning for the unjust suspicion."

She laid her head on Mrs. Montressor's shoulders as she spoke.

"What shall you tell him to-morrow, Edith?" said the mother, after a moment's silence.

"I shall promise to marry him, I suppose. He expects it—the world expects it, and I am but a toy in his hands and the world's."

She spoke bitterly, as she rose up.

"Stay with me, dearest," pleaded the mother, tenderly. "Surely you are not going out again to-night?"

"I must, mamma; but I shall not be long away from you. I promised to take some wine and oranges to Bessie's little girl."

"Bessie, the washerwoman?"

"Yes; don't you remember how ill the child is? And these poor people cannot afford little luxuries to tempt the failing appetite of invalids."

"But it is such a locality, Edith; you must take one of the servants with you."

"Oh, no, mamma; I shall not be gone ten minutes. It isn't worth while, and I'd rather be alone."

She had her own way, of course; and the sun was just dipping below the horizon as her light foot ascended the ruinous wooden steps of Bessie Ryan's domicile.

"Why, Bessie! what's the matter?"

For Bessie was sitting, or rather cowing, in a corner, with her head on a chair, rocking herself to and fro, with a sort of moaning cry.

Edith came forward, and laid her hand softly on the woman's shoulder.

"Is Rosy worse?"

"No, Miss Edith; it's better she is, but—"

"Then what are you grieving about?"

"Oh, Miss Edith; to think what the children 'll do, and me in prison!"

"In prison, Bessie? You have set up nights with Rosy until you're light-headed, and don't know what you are saying."

"Deed then I do, Miss, and it's gospil truth, worse luck, avick!" moaned Bessie, breaking into fresh sobs and lamentations. "It's a fine gintleman that I'm washin' for, Miss Edith, and he says the diamond button was in the shirt-sleeve when it was sent here. Sure it wasn't, or wouldn't I see it? And if I don't bring it back this night—me that never set eyes on it—he says he'll put me in the jail, and—and—"

Once more the words were drowned in wild, passionate sobs.

"Bessie," said Edith, after a moment of pitying silence, "go to this gentleman—tell him of your little ones, and of sick Rosy. Assure him once again that you never saw the button."

"And it's that I have done, Miss, and he won't believe me; and he swears at me till he makes the blood run cowld."

"Nonsense, Bessie, you always were a timorous little thing! Don't you remember the days when you were my nurse, and I could rule you at three years old with a frown or a stamp of my tiny foot? Get up, child—I will go with you, and we'll make this tyrant hear reason."

"You, Miss Edith?"

"I! Make haste and get your bonnet on—we have no time to los before it grows dark."

And almost before Bessie Ryan knew what she was about, Edith had drawn her into the street, and they were speeding swiftly on their twilight way.

"It's here, Miss—jist round this corner—a lawyer's office!" said Bessie, in a subdued tone.

She tapped at the door, hesitatingly.

"Come in!" cried an impatient voice from within, and the next minute they found themselves in a narrow office, where a young man lounged carelessly before the coal fire, apparently quite heedless of the tape-tied papers that were heaped on the table underneath the flaming gas-light.

How thankful Edith Montressor was for the ample water-proof cloak that concealed her dress, and the thick lace veil she wore, when she knew that she was standing in the presence of Ralph Pole.

"Well, woman," he said, carelessly knocking the ashes from his cigar—which, by the way, he never offered to lay aside—"have you brought the sleeve-button or its equivalent in money?"

"Sir," wailed the woman, bitterly, "I never saw the button. Sure you wouldn't be hard upon the poor widow with three little ones, that'll starve if their mother's gone?"

He curled his lip haughtily.

"What are your ragged brats to me?"

"Listen to me, sir!" said Bessie earnestly. "I never set eyes on the diamond you're been after losin'; but if ye'll only wait, I'll work my fingers to the bone, but I'll give ye the vally of it. For once't I get the name o' thief I'm a lost woman, sir. Nobody would ever give me work again!"

"This is all nonsense," said Ralph Pole, composedly. "You have not brought the sleeve-button?"

"No, sir; how would I?"

"Nor the fifty dollars?"

"I haven't fifty cents in the world, sir."

"Very well—I will call a policeman and put you in charge at once."

"Miss Edith, speak for me!" shrieked Bessie, throwing herself on the ground at Miss Montressor's feet. Ralph Pole, who had risen, stopped abruptly.

"You will do nothing of the sort, Mr. Pole," said Edith, quietly. What is that glittering so brilliantly in the corner?"

For, in a confused pile of crumpled papers, orange-peel, broken inkstands and condemned sand-boxes, she had caught sight of a faded bouquet, in the depths of whose dried stems and shriveled leaves something sparkled like a fiery dew. She stepped forward and disengaged a diamoned sleeve-button from the stem, where it had caught on falling.

"It's the sleeve-button—it's the diamond!" shrieked Bessie, hysterically. "Sure I told you I never saw it."

Edith threw back her veil calmly, and looked at Ralph Pole. He quailed beneath her contemptuous gaze.

"Miss Montressor, this is an awful mistake. Believe me——"

"A very awkward mistake, Mr. Pole. I believed you an honorable gentleman—I find you a petty tyrant, who would oppress a widow with the iron hand of power—a man devoid of mercy, and ignorant of charity!"

"But, Miss Montressor——"

"Our acquaintance is at an end, Mr. Pole. Do not trouble yourself with any further excuses or palliations. Come, Bessie!"

And she swept out of the room with the air of an empress.

Ralph Pole had found his sleeve-button, but he had lost his rich wife.

A BIBICAL WIFE-WHIPPER.

The San Francisco Call, which is tolerable authority on subject; disconnected with national politics, is responsible for the following:

"Yesterday morning, a strange fish turned up in the calaboose, and when the prisoners were introduced to Judge Rix, he took his seat in the prisoners' corner, and looked the personification of an injured and outraged individual. A tear occasionally glistened in his cold gray eye, as he listened to the narrative of crime that has become as household words to those whose duty calls them to the calaboose and police court. He was dressed in a suit that had probably once been black, but which the accumulation of dust and wear of many years had changed to a dull leaden hue. The features of the individual were large and prominent, his Grecian nose indicating his character, perhaps, as plainly as if it had been written in black and white upon his broad forehead, from which the hairs were brushed back over the top of the cranium. Finally, the case of Ezekiel Kimball was called. When the name was uttered, our friend rose up and exclaimed, in a sepulchral voice:

"Behold, oh Lord, for I am in distress; my bowels are troubled; my heart is turned within me, for I have grievously rebelled. They have heard that I sigh; there is none to comfort me; all my enemies have heard of my trouble; they are glad that Thou hast done it."

"You are charged with assault and battery on your wife, Susan Kimball; are you guilty or not guilty?"

"A man hath joy by the answer of his mouth, and a word spoken in due season, how good it is."

"Are you guilty?" inquires the bailiff.

"As a madman who casteth firebrands, arrows and death."

"He says, your honor, that he is crazy, but I don't believe him."

"A lying tongue hateth those that are afflicted by it; and a flattering mouth worketh ruin."

"He says I lie; I may have been mistaken, your honor, in reporting his plea, but I did not do so intentionally."

"A fool's mouth is his destruction, and his lips are the smoke of his soul."

"Call the witnesses," said his honor, and a small timid-looking little body took the stand, and was sworn, when the prisoner broke out with:

"It is better to dwell in a corner of the house-top, than with a brawling woman and in a wide house."

The woman proceeded, and narrated how the accused had slapped and pinched her, and was declaring that it was not his first offense, when she was interrupted by the prisoner, who declared that—

"A false witness shall not be unpunished, and he that speaketh lies, shall perish."

She became the least bit excited, and retorted."

"Excellent speech becometh not a fool, much less do lying lips a prince."

The court stopped the colloquy, by ordering the prisoner to appear for sentence, who, when he heard the words fall from the lips of the magistrate, exclaimed:

"Judgments are prepared for scorners, and stripes for the backs of fools."

The bailiff ordered him to go below, and as he disappeared down the steps leading to the calaboose, he uttered:

"Wrath is cruel, and anger is outrageous; but who is able to stand before envy?"

THE AX.—The other day I was holding a man by the hand—a hand as firm in its outer texture as leather, and his sunburnt face was as inflexible as parchment; he was pouring forth a tirade of contempt on those who complain that they can get nothing to do, as an excuse for becoming idle loafers.

Said I:

"Jeff, what do you work at? You look hearty and happy; what are you at?"

"Why, said he, "I bought me an ax three years ago that cost me two dollars. That was all the money I had. I went to chopping wood by the cord. I have done nothing else, and have earned more than $600; drank no grog, paid no doctor, and have bought me a little farm in the Hoosier State, and shall be married next week to a girl who has earned $200 since she was eighteen. My old ax I shall keep in the drawer, and buy me a new one to cut my wood with."

"After I left him I thought to myself, that ax and no grog." They are the two things that make a man in this world. How small a capital that ax—how sure of success with the motto, "No grog!" And then a farm and a wife, the best of all.

GEN. SHERMAN.—The Zanesville Courier relates this anecdote of Sherman:

In conversation with a number of officers at his headquarters, in the Fall of 1864, the Presidential election was touched upon, when some of the number addressed Gen. Sherman with:

"General, who will you vote for?"

"I shall vote for neither."

"Not vote! That is very strange."

"I'll tell you why," says the General. "I never voted but once, and then I disfranchised myself."

Such looks of wonder and incredulity as this produced may be imagined, but the General, paying no attention thereto, proceeded:

"I never voted for a President but once in my life, and that was for Buchanan; and I am since satisfied that any person who was d—d fool enough to do that has not sense enough to exercise the elective franchise. I disfranchised myself, and consequently shall not vote."

THE BROKEN ENGAGEMENT.

"No! Carrie, "not even a bud," can I spare from my peerless rose. No doubt it appears selfish to keep them all when you so much desire a single one. You have been very kind to me, darling, since my illness, brightening by your presence and sympathy many dark hours of suffering. The rose tree shall be yours, when my nights have become days in that other land.

Since little Eva was in, prattling of your two lovers. I have had a story to tell you if you have leisure to remain I think I feel strong enough to relate it now. Raise my head a little, please; that will do nicely—thank you.

It will be twelve years to-morrow since my twentieth birthday. Your mother was one day past eighteen, but we always celebrated the festivals together. Upon this occasion Uncle gave us a grand party. I dressed early for my bethrothed, Lawrence Elmore, had promised to come before the company arrived, and bring me flowers. I anticipated something beautiful, for his taste was exquisite. He came bringing a boquet of half-opened rose buds and blue violets; besides this, a branch from a rose tree, bearing three fragrant white buds, just ready to expand into full flower. The buds he insisted upon twining with his own hands among my braids and ringlets, which he accomplished with wonderful skill, making the green leaves and snowy buds gleam here and there among my dark curls in a way that won praise and admiration from all.

"My taste" was commended. Again I laughed the compliments off as best could; for to no one, not even your mother, had I told the secret of my engagement. Lawrence was a clerk industrious and economical. Still, he deemed it not prudent to marry in less than two years, and I insisted that if we waited so long the engagement should not be public. My only motive was to avoid the comments and discussions of acquaintances.

Our party passed pleasantly; the refreshments, music, flowers, everything, were admirable; the company were in fine spirits, and nothing occurred to make it a dark hour in my life. Among the guests was Mr. Hueton, just returned from a lengthened tour in South America.

Early in the evening he was introduced to me and entertained me greatly with accounts of wild adventures and descriptions of tropical scenery. Several times during the evening, we were thrown together, and that subtile something which tells a maiden when she has won a new admirer, told me that Mr. Hueton would pursue the acquaintance.

Months of gayety followed, and people began to notice the attentions Mr. Hueton paid me. Lawrence was seldom present; books and study occupied his time save when he spent a quiet evening with me. These evenings became less frequent, for I went out constantly.

There was a calm in the devotion of the wealthiest and best educated man of the set.

I never stopped to think whither I was drifting. One day, some six months after our party, a beautiful boquet was sent me with a note. I had not seen my betrothed for two weeks, and said to myself, he has sent this to say he is coming to-night. I opened and read:

"CLARA—With the flowers, accept the devotion of one who would be more than your friend.
"LEWIS HUETON."

The paper fell from my startled fingers and for the first time in months I was obliged to think. Stooping to raise the note, I brushed against the rose, which, with infinite care and patience, I had reared from the branch worn upon my birth night. The gentle touch of the leaves on my cheek smote me like a blow.

All the day was spent in thought. Lawrence I argued, does not really love me, or he would be more attentive; I have scarcely seen him for two months, and he is becoming so quiet and abstracted that his visits are not as pleasant as formerly. Why should my youth and beauty be wasted in planning little economies as a clerk's wife when, as Mrs. Hueton, every wish would be gratified?

At evening, having stifled love and conscience, I dressed to meet Mr. Hueton. He came—told me how I had grown into his affections, and offered heart and hand for my acceptance. I did not then accept his proposal, though I gave reason to expect my answer would be favorable, if my relatives were pleased.

Before sleeping I wrote to Lawrence, saying as gently as possible that I could not happily share his lot; that having been brought up in luxury, though having no fortune of my own, I could not cheerfully labor, as I ought, to make his salary suffice for us; therefore I asked freedom from my engagement. Three days later a reply came in the following words:

"CLARA—My best beloved—you are free. I have nothing of yours to return, save a bit of blue ribbon that once tied your curls. I retain that.
"LAWRENCE."

I felt instinctively that my freedom had been purchased at the price of mortal anguish to another, and would gladly have undone my work. Shutting myself from every eye, that day, I did not weep, but suffered none the less that tears were denied me.

The evening brought Mr. Hueton, and with the hearty approval of my uncle and aunt, was again betrothed. Lewis urged an early day for the marriage, but aunt insisted that four months was the least possible time in which my outfit could be prepared.

I was in a whirl of silk, laces, muslins, which wearied me. Mr. Hueton often remarked my silent ways and thoughtful looks, which he attributed to shyness and over exertion. With this grand faith in me, he never imagined my love was half vanity.

At length, but eight days were to pass before our marriage. The rose tree was full of opening buds, and I anticipated wearing them at my bridal. Two buds, were half open, and I brought the plant down to show Lewis, when he came in to spend the evening.

"Do you know, darling," said he, "that the charming taste with which the roses were twined in your hair, the first time of our meeting, was what attracted me to you?

I bent over the tree to hide my glowing face. He continued:

"But I have not told you—I can remain no longer this evening, having promised to spend the night with a sick friend. By the way, she is passionately fond of flowers—give me those two, for they will fade before the day, and others will come out."

I sent the flower and he left me. The day following a messenger brought a request from Lawrence Elmore, that I would lend him, for one day, my rose, he was ill, had heard of its wonderful beauty and knew how I had reared it. I could but send it, with every caution for its safety. Instead of calling that evening, Mr. Hueton wrote saying he was staying with a dying friend. The thought that this friend was my discarded lover did not cross my mind.

The next morning Mr. Hueton brought the rose tree, shorn of every bud and blossom. He placed it upon the table saying:

"My friend, Lawrence Elmore, cut them off, and started upon a long journey with them in his hand!"

"O, pity me!" I cried, and fell senseless upon the floor. When consciousness returned, he was holding me to his heart; but with such a desolate, broken-hearted look in his face, as I was fain to turn away my eyes.

"Pity you, Clara?" said he, "pity me! I have lost my best loved friend, and my beloved wife. Lawrence did not willingly betray your fault; it was only in the delirium of his dying moment that I learned what had caused his illness."

Quietly placing me upon the sofa, he left the house.

The wedding invitations had not been given out and were delayed by my sudden illness. From a servant I learned when Lawrence's funeral would take place, and in spite of remonstrance, attended dressed plainly and wearing a heavy veil to avoid recognition.

He was buried in Greenwood and, alone in the carriage that my uncle sent, I went to the grave. Mr. Hueton and I stood side by side, as the last solemn words were said, though I fancied he did not recognize me until as we turned away, he offered his arm, conducted me to the carriage, and left me without one word.

May my darling Carrie never know such agony of remorse as I suffered that day and for many years, feeling that I had murdered the man I loved, and destroyed the happiness of one so worthy of respect and affection as Mr. Hueton. At evening the package containing the few notes I had written him, and my miniature, was handed me by a servant; I looked in vain for one written word of his. He was too noble to add one reproach to those he knew I suffered, yet too truthful to attempt a palliation of my fault. It then became necessary to tell my uncle that there would be no marriage, and that the fault of the broken engagement was mine; yet I could not bring his contempt upon me by telling him all. I have related this to you, Carrie, as a warning. Your affections are given to one man, do not trifle with the holiest feelings of another. Sometimes, when I am alone, and you come to Greenwood, bring a rose for Lawrence Elmore.

THE DOCTOR OUTWITTED.—Dr. Dodge, a celebrated physician, while lecturing through the State on the evils of tea and coffee, he happened to meet one morning at the breakfast table a witty son of Erin of the bottle class. Conversation turned on the doctor's favorite subject, and he addressed our Irish friend as follows:

"Perhaps you think I would be unable to convince you of the deleterious effects of tea and coffee?"

"I don't know," said Erin, "but I would like to be there when you do it."

"Well," says the doctor, "if I can convince you that they are injurious to the health will you abstain from their use."

"Sure and I will, sir."

"How often do you use coffee and tea," asked the doctor.

"Morning and night, sir."

"Well," says the doctor, "do you ever experience a slight dizziness of the brain on going to bed?"

"I do, indeed, I do," replied Erin.

"And a sharp pain through the temples and about the eyes in the morning?"

"Troth, I do, sir."

"Well," said the doctor, with an air of confidence and assurance in his manner, "that is the tea and coffee."

"It is, indeed? Faith and I always thought it was the whisky I drank!"

The company roared with laughter and the doctor quietly retired.

REBEL PRISON FARE.—Since it has become the fashion to publish diaries detailing prison life and sufferings, a gentleman who resides in Massachusetts, a man of education, refinement and birth equal to that of Davis or any other traitor, has published a diary of a certain week in his life, one of many weeks, in fact, during which he was detained by orders of Jeff. Davis in durance vile at Belle Isle, almost in sight of the Executive Mansion in Richmond. The diary, as published, relates only to his diet, and contains nothing of the deprivations of fuel, of cleanliness of body, and of changes of linen, which Mr. Davis deems so essential to comfort. We subjoin some extracts:

Monday—Breakfast, 0 0 0. Dinner, 0 0 0. Supper, nine o'clock, corn-dodger three inches square.

Tuesday—Breakfast, two and a quarter inch corn-dodger. Dinner, 0 0 0. Supper, half a pint of pea soup, (three worms in it).

Wednesday—Breakfast, 0 0 0. Dinner, 0 0 0. Supper, 0 0 0.

Thursday—Breakfast, 0 0 0. Dinner, corn-dodger and a small beef bone. Supper, 0 0 0.

Friday—Breakfast, one teaspoonful of rice, four bugs and half a pint of James river water, simmered together. Dinner, 0 0 0. Supper, 0 0 0.

Saturday—Breakfast, three hard tack, one and a quarter square inches of bacon, one raw sweet potato. Dinner, 0 0 0. Supper, 0 0 0.

Sunday—Breakfast, 0 0 0. Dinner, 0 0 0. Supper, two sweet potatoes, raw."

WHAT WILL RUIN CHILDREN.—To have parents exercise partiality. This practice is lamentably prevalent. The first born or last, the only son or daughter, the beauty or wit of the household, is too commonly set apart. Joseph like.

To be frequently out of temper. A child ought to be spared, as far as possible, all just cause of irritation; and never be punished for doing wrong by taunts, cuffs, or ridicule.

To be suffered to go uncorrected to-day for the very thing for which punishment was inflicted yesterday. With as much reason might a watch which should be wound back half the time be expected to run well, as a child thus treated, to become possessed of an estimable character.

To be corrected for accidental faults with as much severity as though they were done intentionally.

The child who does ill when he meant to do well, merits pity, but not upbraiding. The disappointment of its young protector, attendant on the disastrous failure of any little enterprise, is of itself, sufficient punishment, even when the result was brought about by carelessness. To add more is as cruel as it is hurtful.

Parents who give a child to understand that he is a burden to them, need not be surprised should they one day be given to understand, that they are burdensome to him.

AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY IN ARTILLERY.—Captain W. Falliser, of the 18th Hussars, is said to have made a valuable discovery in artillery. This is the use of "chilled shot." That is, cast in cold sand moulds instead of the iron ones. These projectiles, being through the 100 pounders, pass through the largest solid, and then split into "minute fragments" of from four to eight ounces, dealing death around like shells. They cost, moreover, 2s instead of 90s. Captain Falliser has also invented a mode of rifling iron guns by introducing a coil of wrought iron which has been tried at Woolwich with great success, and will make hundreds of useless pieces useful again.

"KEEP your dog away from me," said a dandy to a butcher-boy. "Darn the dog, he's always after puppies," said the boy.

THE latest remedy for baldness is: Use brandy externally until the hair grows, and take it internally to clench the roots.

DUTCH FLAT ENQUIRER.

SATURDAY MORNING, AUG. 18, 1866.

Now, by St. Paul, the work goes bravely on,
The Stars and Stripes are up for Liberty,
Flag of the Nation--Talisman of the Free,
Curs'd be the hand that dares to pull thee down.

ALAS, POOR YORICK!—A report was recently industriously circulated, and by many accepted as true, to the effect that our Senator elect, Hon. Cornelius Cole, had, during his sojourn at Washington, "gone over to the Hessians"—i. e., that he had carried the favor of the Federal Executive by adhering to "my policy." This was so sweet a morsel for the R. Rs, (rebels and renegades) that they grabbed and gulped it as a New England baby would "apple-sass," and appointed Mr. Cole a delegate to the half-breed Convention at Philadelphia. Their chagrin may be imagined but is scarcely describable, now that Mr. Cole authoritatively and peremptorily washes his hands of the unholy alliance. We are forced to sympathize with the Murdock-McClay-Gunnison troupe of political tumblers, in their grievous disappointment, as we are forced to admit that their faith in Mr. Cole's tergiversation rested on no flimsy basis. All who are acquainted with the parties must confess that the well-established probity and veracity of Dr. P. H. Sibley, the late conscientious Pacific Railroad Commissioner, were such as to justify the acceptance of his assurance of Mr. Cole's recreancy, even though in doing so the record of a half-score years of consistent Republicanism should be belied. We understand that the report of Mr. Cole's apostacy had no other foundation than the declarations of Dr. Sibley, made, professedly, ex cathedra, shortly after the Doctor's return from Washington. We are compelled either to suspect Senator Cole of vacillation in this connection, or to harbor an unwarrantable doubt of Sibley's veracity—whenever the latter is consented to, Truth may well tremble on her tottering throne, and Veracity's self acknowledge vanquishment.

SAFE AT HOME.—We are in receipt of a letter from our old friend and townsman, one of the pioneers of Dutch Flat, Mr. A. K. Benton, who took passage in the Moses Taylor, from San Francisco on the 15th ultimo, and arrived in New York after a pleasant and healthy trip, in twenty days and six hours. The monotony of the trip was relieved by the ravings of a hurdy-gurdy girl who was robbed of a thousand-dollar greenback. On arriving in New York Mamselle Hurdy-Gurdy had a lady (!) who had been her room-mate searched, and a bill of the denomination named was found stitched to the under side of her clothing, but as the fair votaress of la salon de lager could not identify it as the one she had lost, the magistrate discharged the accused, which did not increase friend Benton's admiration of Metropolitan jurisprudence. Mr. Benton assures us that the cost of living in New York is quite double what it was in Dutch Flat when he left, while common labor commands but two dollars per day in greenbacks, and mechanics but three to five dollars. Our old friend was, at the date of his writing, preparing for a trip into Virginia, with the purpose of trying to purchase land. He informs us that there are thousands of Northerners bound on the same errand. Our readers will be glad to hear that Mr. Benton has promised to correspond with us from the Southern country and give us the result of his observations there. As he is a close and correct observer, we may rationally expect a treat.

STUNNING BUT CONVINCING!—A MINE THAT IS A MINE.—Messrs. S. Y. Halsey and J. Abeal of this place, who are stockholders in the Civil Rights Claim, near Newcastle in the lower end of this county, are in receipt of a letter from C. B. Connelly, which, did we not know Mr. Connelly to be thoroughly reliable, we should regard as an attempted improvement on Baron Munchausen. The Civil Rights claims are divided into twelve shares of 300 feet each. The Company have sunk a shaft to a depth of something over 100 feet at the trifling expense of $435. From rock obtained at a depth of 93 feet, an assay was obtained, the figures of which are so enormous that we refrain from repeating them for fear of shaking the faith of our readers—suffice it that the result was expressed in ounces instead of dollars. A first-rate evidence of the reliability of the return is, that the assayer, one of the closest and most cautious men in existence, made haste to buy all the stock in his reach before showing his figures. Supervisor Scott, Dr. Fagan and Mr. Geo. G. Webster, of Forest Hill, are among the lucky owners in the Civil Rights, and all of the owners are satisfied that they have a monster of a "big thing." The Company is now engaged in gathering up every particle of rock which they have taken out of their shaft, several tons of which they will send to Grass Valley and the remainder to the mill at Ophir to be crushed. They are now satisfied that much of this rock, which they heretofore considered worthless, will pay well for crushing.

WHAT SAY THE CROAKERS NOW?—A class of men who, if offered gratis the coinage of the Philadelphia mint, would shake despondent heads and doubt if it would pay, or who would grumble at the Seraph-life unless gifted with wings that would work themselves, have of late been dragging their dilatory bodies out of the Meadow Lake District and croaking dismal prophecies of a failure of the mines in that vicinity. As an off-set to all such croakings and prophecies, substantial "bricks" of precious metal have, during the past week or ten days, given substantial and conclusive answers. Among many of which we have received indisputably reliable accounts, the U. S. Grant Company, Ohio Ledge, has realized $334 from three tons of rock crushed at a Grass Valley mill. We take it for granted that this was selected rock, but $111 per ton leaves a wide margin for splendid pay with a ledge situated as the Grant is, where an average of less than $20 would yield immense profit. We are reliably assured that the Mohawk Company, on the Montreal Ledge, have realized returns nearly equal to the above, while several other claims in the same district, in fact all that have been subjected to fair tests, give indubitable evidence that Meadow Lake is bound to be the seat of immense mining operations and the source from which within a very brief period, will flow fabulous wealth.

WE DEMAND AN ANSWER!

We claim the right—we have the right—we are determined to exercise the right, to ask our readers a few plain and simple questions, and we demand, either by word, action, or some other token, to be plainly and fairly answered. Of course it is well understood that it is our highest ambition to greet our patrons with a readable paper—to pen something which shall interest or amuse them, and that the guerdon for which we strive most vigorously is the approval of our readers.

Actuated by this desire—stirred by this impulse, we tax our wisest judgment and exert our utmost powers. Cognizant as we are that most, if not all of our readers are also readers of the Union or some other daily newspaper, we have been led to suppose that on those, and not on a rehash of items which have been read, digested and become stale before our weekly can reproduce them, do the majority of our patrons rely, for a knowledge of events transpiring in the outside world. Filled with this idea, we have conceived that our mission was mainly to chronicle news of a local character and to seek, in our feeble way, to throw whatever influence any just thoughts or wise conclusions of ours might be entitled to, into the scale, on topics of public interest. In matters of local concernment a local press, if edited by a man of superlative ability—by one who is a God-gifted leader—may assume the role of reformer, and such gifted editor may conceive and compel acquiescence in a system and modes of action of his own dictation. On the other hand, there is a wooden-headed, wishy-washy style of avoiding thought and saving labor by clipping columns-full of items which it is well known have been read and re-read by every one into whose hands the paper will find its way. None know better than ourself, that we are not possessed of the superlative, leadership capacity requisite for the enunciation of a new philosophy and the maintenance of a new system.

We might, if we wanted to, settle down into the wishy-washy-wooden-headed style, but we don't want to. As the fairest compromise we were capable of offering between the super-capable and the ultra-uninteresting, we have adjudged ourself competent and know ourself willing to intersperse our dog-fight, man-fight, mining and other local items, with attacks on admitted general and local grievances.

It must be patent to the most casual observer, that when the public good is defended by an assault on individuals whose actions tend to public injury, the animosity of the assaulted individuals is assured.

In several instances we have felt it to be our duty to make such assaults, and we have acted upon our conviction of duty. As a natural consequence, which we clearly foresaw, we have, in defending public interests incurred private enmities. The question which we have assumed the right to, and do exercise, is: If the public approve, will they sustain our course as boldly as we defend their interest? If yes, we are willing to proceed on the line we have marked out—setting down naught in malice nor aught extenuating. Unless we have some assurance that an approving public will accord their moral and material support, we are indisposed to shoulder the entire burden of personal malice that must result from an open and manly defense of public interests. Ours is not the Donnybrook spirit which hits purely from a love of hitting. We would infinitely prefer a state of universal concord to one of even temporary discord, but when a public outrage is committed, or public injury connived at, our impulses prompt us to fly to the rescue. If the public approve of this impulse, methods by which they can make it known are innumerable.

Although we by no means ask to be relieved from personal responsibility for anything we may indite, we can but regard it as asking too much that, in an enlightened community, an editor shall be required to go armed with derringer or blunderbuss in necessary self-defense for having asserted simple matters of fact. Our views may be false or prejudiced, but in such a case we can but consider that, if the public knows that the emanations from the editorial pen are true and justified, the public, no less than the editor, are outraged and insulted by a threat of violent retaliation.

THE POINT OF HONOR.—Governor Orr, of South Carolina, made a pretty, plausible and pathetic speech to a large audience, in Independence Square, Philadelphia, on Monday evening last. Acknowledging that his section had fought for the right of secession, accepting the verdict of the war and asserting fervid Unionism in behalf of himself and constituents, he pressed magnanimity on his hearers as the one all-important point of honor which should control them. It was of course no part of Gov. Orr's business to remember—but we can't forget—that there is a very considerable number of people, white and black, in the South, whose fervid Unionism blazed out while his and that of his constituents took the form of armed resistance. We scarcely feel as free as he seems, to forget that the fervid Unionism of him and his kind drove those others from their homes, persecuted them with stripes, branded them with treason and strung many of their fathers, sons and brothers up on convenient trees in the compelled sight of some of the poor wives, mothers and sisters whose hearts still bleed over the bitter memories. While that numerous class is still ostracized and unmagnanimously persecuted for war-time loyalty—while our ever-fast friends are still hunted, proscribed and derided for their self-sacrificing devotion to our cause, it comes with ill-grace from those whose bowels of compassion can find no room for magnanimity toward them, to appeal to us for the exercise of that virtue to the exclusion of that other, higher and true point of honor—justice to our friends who upheld our banner and defended our cause in the hour of peril.

DISGUSTED WITH MONTANA.—A friend has permitted us to peruse a letter received by him from Blackfoot City, Montana. The letter is dated July 22d ult., and gives a sensible though lugubrious view of that famed country. The writer considers that region "the infernalest hilk" he ever struck. He describes the country as over-run with idlers who can find nothing to do. He advises our friend, as follows: "Don't be in a hurry to come to this country, send for your family and stop in California the rest of your days,—that is the best country I have ever yet struck."

THINK OF IT!—Within the radius of Dutch Flat influence, Dutch Flat interests and Dutch Flat trade, but a very small fraction of the mineral land has been prospected, while but a much smaller fraction has been developed. Around every mining town in Placer county, (we might go further, but do not propose to) the same rule holds good. In Dutch Flat and every other of our mining towns there are many business men who are dependent on mining development, and who derive handsome revenues therefrom. In these same communities are to be found many industrious, intelligent, honest and reliable men who earn but a precarious livelihood in pursuits that add but little if anything to the general wealth. Many such are at times necessarily public burthens—their subsistence an unearned subtraction from the fruits of the labor of more prosperous neighbors. In reflecting on this condition of affairs, and the attendant fact that many of our towns are gradually being deserted, while there are few communities but can foresee a like fate in a not distant future, it has struck us that communizing, to a limited extent, might be productive of great benefits with little or no risk. We imagine that there are at least five hundred persons in Township No. 4 (making a very low estimate) who have permanent interests which would be largely affected by the future progress or decadence of our mining interests. Fully the number named could afford to risk fifty cents or a dollar per week, without serious inconvenience, for the furtherance of any scheme which gave fair promise of public benefits. It would seem to us entirely practicable and sensible, for those who could thus afford it and who have permanent interests at stake, to effect a combination and organize for the purpose of general or at least partial development of our resources. Five hundred persons, giving one dollar per week, would produce a fund of $2,000 per month, which, placed in the hands of trustees or directors of sound judgment and economical disposition, would furnish employment to the unemployed and convert them into paying consumers, while the chances of the investment's paying could only be doubted by those who have no faith in our possession of undeveloped resources. Not being of this latter class, we feel confident that some such combination as we have indicated would tend to accelerate trade and work a general benefit. At all events, even in case of failure, the worst would be known just so much sooner, and delays in suspense avoided, perhaps to the saving of many times the amount expended in arriving at definite conclusions.

SANG FROID.—Although our language does not furnish an exact equivalent for the phrase which forms our caption, we have latterly been disposed to claim for our people the possession of the mental condition which the phrase signifies in higher degree even than the French themselves. Twenty-four hours after the completion of the great national highway to our town had practically converted our mountain home into a tide-water neighborhood, the new condition was accepted and treated as though it was as much a matter of course as the every-day working of a hydraulic. That which, a month ago, was considered among the doubtfully—possibles, is to-day considered one of the commonplace indispensibles. "What in thunder is the matter with the cable" is the nonchalant query, if dispatches from London, Berlin, Vienna or St. Petersburg are delayed longer than twenty-four hours. Like the volunteers at Buena Vista, who "didn't know when they were whipped" there is not an urchin in our midst so verdant as to give an outward sign that he knows, or if he knows that he is surprised that we have made miraculous progress.

DEATH OF WASH. WRIGHT.—Washington Wright, a newspaper man of more than ordinary reputation, died recently in the San Francisco County Hospital. He was at various times connected with several of the San Francisco papers, but the greater portion of his California experience in journalism was among the interior papers of this State. He started as a journalist on the Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph, and afterward edited the first Know-Nothing paper published in Chicago. As a writer he was vigorous and dictatorial, having some peculiarities of style which always secured him an extensive circle of readers. He was married, only a few months ago, to Mrs. Clarice Chamberlain, known to the readers of the Sunday Mercury as "Topsy Turvy."

PLUMAS NATIONAL.—This is the title of a new Union paper published weekly by the Union party of Plumas county. H. L. Gear is editor and manager. We wish it success.

DIED.

In Dutch Flat, Tuesday, Aug. 14th, EDWARD, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hoos, aged 8 months.

At Dutch Flat, Friday, Aug. 17th, Miss MARY LANGERTON, aged 12 years.

It has never fallen to our lot to witness or of so general and profound exhibited, on the occasion of the death of one so young, as that evinced by all ages, sexes and conditions in our community as the tidings of little Mary's death were circulated. Modest, beautiful and loving, she was the idol of her parents, her teacher's pet, the universal favorite of her school-fellows and playmates, admired and esteemed by all who knew her.

Hushed is the school-room's busy hum,
The play-ground is deserted,
Each tearful prattler stricken dumb,
Sweet Mary has departed.

Up, through the spanning azure dome,
With golden glamour gilded,
Her spirit wings to fairer home,
By Heavenly Father builded.

Though cruel, cruel, seems the blow,
Though grievous 'tis to yield her,
God—wise, just, good, hath willed it so,
In Heaven his arm will shield her.

REASONS WHY THE
AMERICAN WATCH,
Made at Waltham, Mass.
ARE THE BEST.
It is made on the best principle. Its frame is composed of SOLID PLATES. NO jar can interfere with the harmony of its working and no sudden shock can damage its machinery, (itself famous for its novelty, as well as for its effectiveness) and is therefore properly made. The watch is what all mechanism should be—ACCURATE, SIMPLE, STRONG AND ECONOMICAL. Except some high grades, too costly for general use, foreign watches are chiefly made by women and boys. Such watches are composed of several hundred pieces screwed and riveted together, and require constant repairs to keep them in any kind of order. All persons who have carried "anchres," "lepines" and "English Patent Levers," are perfectly well aware of the truth of this statement.
At the beginning of our enterprise, more than ten years ago, it was our first object to make a thoroughly good low-priced watch for the million, to take the place of those foreign impositions—the refuse of foreign factories—which were entirely unsaleable at home and perfectly worthless everywhere.
How well we have accomplished this may be understood from the fact, that after so many years of public trial, we now make MORE THAN HALF OF ALL THE WATCHES SOLD IN THE UNITED STATES, and that no others have ever given such universal satisfaction. While this department of our business is continued with increased facilities for perfect work, we are at present engaged in the manufacture of watches of the very HIGHEST GRADE KNOWN TO CHRONOMETRY, unequalled by anything made in the world. For this purpose we have the amplest facilities. We have erected an addition to our main buildings expressly for this branch of our business, and have filled it with the best workmen in our service. New machines and appliances have been constructed, which perform their work with consummate delicacy and exactness. The choicest and most approved materials only are used and we challenge comparison between the grade of our work and the finest imported chronometers. We do not pretend to sell our watches for less money than foreign watches, but we do assert without fear of contradiction, for the same money our product is incomparably superior. All our watches, of whatever grade, are fully warranted, and this warrantee is good at all times against us or our agents in all parts of the world.

Mr. Headly's "Sacred Mountains;" "Washington and his Generals;" "Napoleon and his Marshals" which have given him such fame as a writer, are but a prelude to the copious and fascinating descriptions portrayed in this his greatest work—which instead of grating on the reader's ear with the cries of death, leads him gracefully to the sublime achievements of heroism until it reaches a plane of contemplation that is imposing.

GOING HOME.—We learn that R. W. Lyon, Esq., brother of our worthy County Recorder, W. B. Lyon, designs leaving for the Eastern States by the next steamer. Mr. Lyon has won the universal esteem of all who have had business in the Recorder's Office, in which he has rendered efficient service as deputy for several years. All of his acquaintances will be pleased to learn that he is assured a responsible and lucrative position in a large mercantile house in Chicago, immediately on his return. Mr. A. Hinckley, of Stewart's Flat, will also take his departure on the same steamer. Mr. Hinckley has been a tower of strength to the Republican and Union parties of this county. In both of those organizations he has been an untiring and indefatigable worker, and has always held leading positions. The Misses Hinckley, who will accompany their brother, have been, during their residence among us, connected with our public schools as teachers and in that connection, as well as in the social circle, their loss will be seriously felt. To Mr. Lyon and family, and to Mr. and the Misses Hinckley, we wish prosperous breezes and a pleasant voyage, though we can but regret their determination to leave us.

THE CHILD IS BORN—WHAT SHALL WE CALL IT.—Copperhead Eunuchism and "my policy" Hermaphrodicy have industriously conjugalized at Philadelphia, the latter have endured sore-travail and after immense labor have brought forth mongrel issue, Randall "called" —Doolittle "called"—Cowan "called"—Governor Orr "came in"—Governor Perry "came in," but Vallandigham held the winning hand.

Clement was clement and resigned his seat—wasn't ejected, mind you, nor could he have been.

The Convention cheered Vallandigham and swore by the Union.

The Convention lionized Vallandigham and vowed devotion to the Union.

The members serenaded Vallandigham and sung peans to the Union.

The Convention applauded Vallandigham and gave birth to a new party, its labors soothed by the dulcet strains of hozannahs to Clement I.

What shall the brat be called?

Do little! Do little!! Do little!!!

SUBJUGATING TIME.—The Pacific Railroad Company seem determined to be balked in the active prosecution of their great enterprise neither by time, tide nor circumstance. The journeying of the sun toward his winter solstice, as it dwindled the number of hours usually devoted to labor, and lengthened the usual hours of rest, seemed destined to procrastinate the progress of the road proportionately, but the rubicund face of the jolly superintendent of the Railroad Company, reflects the over-radiant visage of opposing Sol, as he surmounts the obstacle by arrangements for independent gangs to push the work along during the Sun's nightly absence. In plain English—the Railroad Company are now working day and night shifts on the line of their road above here, and it is stated that the night shifts accomplish more, with far less discomfort, than those who are compelled to work and swelter in the sunshine, which is hot enough just about now to give a thick beef-steak a decent broil.

CHANGES AT MEADOW LAKE.—Our Meadow Lake neighbors are giving signs of a disposition to "cut their garment according to their cloth," which we hail as a harbinger of permanent prosperity. The Sun will hereafter be issued semi-weekly instead of daily, as heretofore, and the town has disincorporated itself. We consider it remarkably well for a quartz-mining camp, in the first year of its existence, to support even a semi-weekly paper, and our Dutch Flat experience satisfies us that an energetic Justice's Court is a sufficiently expensive luxury for a small community, without resorting to an urban display of City Fathers, police, etc. By determining to live according to their means we consider that the Lakers have given stronger "indications" of a prosperous future, than was suggested even by frequent exhibitions of "gold in the croppings."

HARD AND SCARCELY FAIR.—Mr. Amos and family, who have been among our most esteemed citizens for the past six years, took their departure last week for Napa Valley. Dutch Flat society can but illy bear the loss of this interesting family, especially heavy is the loss of Miss Nancy V. Amos, whose place as organist in the M. E. Church it will be difficult to fill. The melody of her warbling voice will be sadly missed at our concerts and other social gatherings, and the poor and afflicted will sustain an irreparable loss in the absence of the active charity and soothing care of Mrs. Amos and her fair daughters.

RED DOG IN ASHES.—We are informed by Mr. Tam, who carries the Express hence to Nevada, via Little York, Red Dog and You Bet, that the town of Red Dog was totally destroyed by fire, on Wednesday last. The houses in Red Dog, numbering some forty or fifty, were so crowded and jumbled together that it was utterly impossible, a fire once started, to save anything, and the consequence was, that in a very few minutes after the alarm was first given, everything combustible was licked up by the devouring element. Will our mining communities never learn wisdom from such bitter experiences as this?

BUILDING A FURNACE.—We are pleased to observe in the Stars and Stripes, that the Pacific Company, near Ophir, are engaged in erecting a furnace to roast their ore. From personal observation of this Company's ledge, and examination of their rock, we are satisfied that they will be amply remunerated for their outlay and congratulate the Company on this, which is certainly a move in the right direction."

BADLY BRUISED.—On Monday last, while Mr. Aaron Ferguson was engaged in roofing the Dutch Flat depot of the C. P. R., the cleet upon which his foot rested, gave way, and he was precipitated to the ground, a distance of some twenty feet, causing several painful bruises and contusions, a sprained shoulder and wrist, but fortunately no bones were broken.

A THIEF BAGGED.—A Chinese thief who combined an extensive knowledge of the burglar's art with his thieving propensities set in for a raid on the miner's cabins on Squire's Ravine last Wednesday morning. He had sacked three houses and was bound on his victorious way, when Constable John Greely bagged him and hied him off to Auburn.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
STOMACH BITTERS!
A PURE AND POWERFUL TONIC,
CORRECTIVE AND ALTERATIVE,
—OF—
Wonderful Efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fever, Cramps, Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex, whether arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system, or produced by special causes.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME. genial and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fierce excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of balsamic herbs and plants, with the mildest and purest of all diffusive stimulants.

As a General Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be appreciated. In case of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises an electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed it operates to reinforce and re-establish them.

The weak Stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of DYSPEPSIA, and in less confirmed forms of INDIGESTION. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habits, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive and from both sexes.

The agony of BILIOUS COLIC is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented.

Last, though not least, it is the ONLY SAFE STIMULANT, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

No family medicine has been so universally, and, it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.

Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers every where, and by

CALIFORNIANS should test the merits of DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. While it is highly palatable as a beverage, it is unequalled as a tonic and invigorator. In the pursuit of fortune at the mines, many persons are exposed to the attacks of complaints of the digestive organs, and various kinds of fever. A NEW AND GRAND EPOCH IN MEDICINE.—Dr. Maggiel is the founder of a new Medical System! The quantitarians, whose vast internal doses resemble the stomach and paralyze the bowels, must give precedence to the man who restores health and appetite, with from one to two of his extraordinary Pills, and cures the most virulent sores with a box or so of his wonderful and all-healing Salve. These two great specifics of the Doctor are fast superseding all the stereotyped nostrums of the day. Extraordinary cures by Maggiel's Pills and Salve have opened the eyes of the public to the inefficiency of the (so called) remedies of others, and upon which people have so long blindly depended. Maggiel's Pills are not of the class that are swallowed by the dozen, and of which every box full taken creates an absolute necessity for another. One or two of Maggiel's Pills suffices to place the bowels in perfect order, tone the stomach, create an appetite, and render the spirits light and buoyant! There is no griping, acid no reaction in the form of constipation. If the liver is affected, its functions are restored; and if the nervous system is feeble, it is invigorated This last quality makes the medicines very desirable for the wants of delicate females. Ulcerous and eruptive diseases are literally extinguished by the disenfectant power of Maggiel's Salve. In fact, it is here announced that MAGGIEL'S BILIOUS, DYSPEPTIC AND DIARRHEA PILLS cure where all others fail. Which for Burns, Scalds, Childblains, Cuts and all abersions of the skin MAGGIEL'S SALVE is infallible. Sold by J. MAGGIEL, 11 Pine street, New York. R. H. HOPE FOR THE AFFLICTED.—In another part of this paper will be found the advertisement of the celebrated Institute established by Dr. J. C. Young, in 1850. In this age of deceit and charlatanism it is a boon to the suffering to point out to them where they are sure of obtaining the wished for relief and cure. Under the care of the skillful Doctor the sick and troubled can divest themselves of their burdens of pain; lay aside their cross, and secure health and happiness. If you are sick or in trouble, do not hesitate. Read the advertisement and follow the advice. Do not forget the number or the manner of directing your letters. Consultation Office, 540, Washington street, San Francisco. Dec-3m

MEDICAL ADVICE.—DR. WM. K. DOHERTY'S Medical and Surgical Institute is becoming a sine qua non to the welfare of our State and health of our citizens; and his rapidly spreading reputation, although it may excite surprise, is but the signal of skill, and follows as the natural result of such a cause. We are personally acquainted with gentlemen who had suffered for years under chronic disease, and who had taken advantage of every available means that promised relief, but without success, until they called upon Dr. Doherty, who, in an incredibly short space of time, has given them entire relief. It is gratifying to announce this fact, because the Dr. is a gentleman who seeks, not by defamation of others, to establish his reputation or ruin of another's fame. The Doctor conducts his own Institute in such a manner must be gratifying to all his patients. He examines, advises, and recommends without charge, and the patient, after hearing his terms for treatment, can accept or reject at pleasure. In no case does the Doctor make a charge unless he effects a cure. This he is able to do, because he feels the confidence which long experience has given, and no doubt the consolation which appertain to that confidence. Persons afflicted with either acute or chronic disease, would do well to consult the Doctor; at all events, it can do no harm, as for consultation he asks no fee; nor does he insist on obedience to his advice unless the patient places himself under his care. His offices are on Sacramento street, opposite the Pacific Mail Steamship office.—News

AT LEAST two-thirds of the Diseases with which the human family are afflicted, are brought on by the want of attention to the condition of the Blood. Whenever the blood becomes impure, no matter from what cause, the effects of such impurity are immediately felt, either in one way or another; and unless measures are at once taken to remove such impurities, the whole system becomes affected, and a long list of sicknesses and sometimes death is the result. Dr. Samuel Adams, a well-known Chemist of San Francisco, has discovered certain herbs and roots, mostly of California growth, which he has combined with Sarsaparilla and Iodide of Potas, and succeeded in producing a Medicine that, while it is entirely harmless in every particular, will in short time completely eradicate from the Blood all impurities of whatever nature, and will restore the patient to perfect ROBUST HEALTH. The preparation is called "ADAMS' BLOOD PURIFIER," and is for sale at wholesale at the United States Drug Store, corner of Bush and Powell streets, San Francisco, and by Dr. D. W. Strong, Dutch Flat. 40

FRENCH MEDICAL OFFICE,

DR. JULIEN PERRAULT, Doctor of Medicine of the Faculty of Paris, Graduate of the University Queen's College, and Physician of the St. John Baptiste Society of San Francisco.

Dr. PERRAULT has pleasure to inform patients, and others seeking confidential medical advice, that he can be consulted daily at his office, Armory Hall Building, North-East corner Montgomery and Sacramento streets, San Francisco. Rooms No. 9, 10, 11, first floor, up stairs entrance either Montgomery or Sacramento streets.

Dr. PERRAULT'S studies have been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of the various forms of Nervous and Physical Debility, the results of injurious habits practiced in youth, which usually terminate in impotence and sterility, and permanently induce all the concomitants of old age. Where a secret infirmity exists involving the happiness of a life and that of others, reason and morality dictate the necessity of its removal, for it is a fact that premature decline of the vigor of manhood, unfitting monial unhappiness, compulsory single life, etc., have their sources in causes, the germ of which is planted in early life, and the bitter fruit tasted long afterward. patients, laboring under this complaint, will complain of one or more of the following symptoms: Nocturnal Emissions, Pains in the Back and Head, Weakness of Memory and Sight, Discharge from the Urethra on going to stool or making water, the Intellectual Faculties are Weakened, Loss of Memory ensues, Ideas are clouded and there is a disinclination to attend to business, or even to reading, writing or the society of friends, etc. The patient will probably complain of Dizziness, Vertigo, and that Sight and Hearing are Weakened and sleep disturbed by dreams, melancholy, sighing, palpitations, faintings, coughs and slow fever; while some have occasional rheumatic pain, and numbness of the body. Some of the most common symptons are pimples in the face and aching in different parts of the body. Patients suffering from this disease, should apply immediately to Dr. PERRAULT, either in person or by letter, as he will guarantee a cure of Seminal Emissions and Impotence in six to eight weeks.

Patients suffering from venereal diseases in any stage Gonorrhea, Gleet, Strictures, Bubo Ulcers, Cutaneous Eruptions, etc., will be treated successfully. All Syphilitic and Mercurial Taints entirely removed from the system.

Dr. PERRAULT'S diplomas are in his office, where patients can see for themselves that they are under the care of a regularly educated practitioner. The best references given if required.

Patients suffering under chronic diseases, can call and examine for themselves. We invite investigation; claim not to know everything, nor to cure everybody, but we do claim that in all cases taken under treatment we fulfil our promises. We particularly request those who have tried this boasted doctor, and that advertised physician, till worn out and discouraged, to call upon us.

Low charges and quick cures.

Ladies suffering from any complaint incidental to their sex, can consult the doctor, with the assurance of relief

Persons at a distance can be cured at home, by addressing a letter to Dr. PERRAULT, corner of Sacramento and Montgomery streets, Rooms, 10 and 11, or Box 973, P. How A Little Girl Overreached Gen. Scott.—During the latter years of his life, General Scott was very much pestered by curiosity hunters for his autograph and at times pitfalls were prepared to catch the old General. One of these is thus interestingly described by the Washington correspondence of the Chicago Post:

I have an album which contains this inscription on one of its title pages:

"Treason is the greatest crime."—Winfield Scott. Washington, D. C., August, 1861.

The name is written in the stiffly feeble characters so well known, but the motto is traced in a much bolder and more forcible hand. The album is the of a New York, who visited the city at the extra session of Congress in 1861. She was very anxious to get the old General's autograph, but soon learned that it was not an easy thing to do. She, however, lit upon the expedient of sending her little girl, of about ten years, right to his office during business hours. The charming creature told the orderly she must see Gen. Scott, and would not be put off with any plea of business, but waited half an hour till her request was finally taken to the Adjutant. Of course, she was admitted to his presence, though he had no intention of allowing her to see the General. She persisted, however, and said she must see him. The officer finally pointed out the door which led to his room, and told her she could go in if she dared. She took him at his word, and in an instant stood within the door. Speaking of it afterwards, she said she was afraid when he first looked up, "but as soon as he saw it was only me he said right pleasant 'well, little girl, what do you want?' And I told him my Ma wanted him to write his name in her book; and he looked sharp at me, and then smiled a little bit and shook hands with me, and asked me how my Ma was, and I told him; and I told him my Pa was in the army, and my Ma was all alone with me; and then he just kissed my cheek, and wrote in Ma's book, and said 'Good morning' to me, and I came out and nobody didn't hurt me at all."

A Funny Speech.—The Wisconsin Legislature had finally considered a proposition to abolish all laws for the collection of debts. The mover of the bill, Mr. Elmore, is a great wag, as is evinced by the following extract from his speech on that subject:

The speaker proceeded to review the present system of collecting debts. It was all a humbug and a cheat, a matter of technicalities and legal shuffling. Lawyers gave advice in order to obtain fees and encourage litigation. Judges made blunders and mistakes. He had a little experience in law, and that was rich. [Laughter] He would give a history of it. The speaker then related how he had purchased a yoke of oxen, about fifteen years ago—paid $50 for them A few days after, the son of the man he bought the oxen of, came to him and said the oxen were his. He insisted on having pay over again, and commenced a suit before a justice. The jury didn't agree. Finally, through the hasswood Justice of the Peace, the case went against him. He appealed to the Circuit Court of Milwaukee. There I lost again, and said to my lawyer: I will give you ten dollars to quote Pennsylvania law to Judge Miller, and get a new trial ordered. [Great laughter.] He took the ten dollars, and performed his duty. A new trial was then granted, and venue changed to Walworth county. Judge Irwin was then the Judge. Any man who wanted to gain a cause in his court, had either to go hunting with him and let him claim all the game that was shot, or pat his dog. [Laughter.] I fed that dog. [Renewed laughter.] The case was decided in my favor. When I heard the decision, I thought the dog had followed me about long enough, so I turned and gave him a kick. [Laughter.] The yelp of the dog had hardly subsided, ere I heard the Judge say:

"Mr. Clerk, this judgment is set aside, and a new trial granted." [Great laughter.]

Mr. Speaker that kick cost me $200! [Convulsive laughter.] You have no doubt seen a suit in a Justice Court in the country. There is spent by jurors and hangers on, besides other costs, at least $50, besides the ill feelings and dissensions caused by it. It is all a cheat. The litigants had better sit down and play a game of old sledge to decide the case. It would be more sure to settle the dispute justly.

Go it Bob-Tail.—A specimen of the genus "Hoosier," was found by Captain ——, of the steamer ——, in the engine room of his boat, while lying at Louisville one fine morning. The captain inquired, "What he was doing there?" "Have you seen Captain Perry?" was the interrogative response. "Don't know him; and can't tell what that has to do with your being in my engine room," replied the captain, angrily "Hold on; that's just what I was getting at. You see, Captain Perry asked me to drink, and so I did; I knew that I wanted to drink, or I shouldn't have been so very dry. So Captain Perry and I went to the ball; Captain Perry was putting on some extras on one toe. I sung out 'Go it, Captain Perry, if you bust your biler.' With that a man steps up to me; says he 'See here, stranger you must leave.' Says I, 'what must I leave fur?' Says he, 'You are making too much noise.' Says I, 'I've been in bigger crowds than this, and made more noise, and didn't leave, nuther.' With that he took me by the nap of the neck and the seat of the breeches, and I left.

As I was shoven down the street, I met a lady I knew she was a lady by a remark she made. Says she, 'Young man, I reckon you'll go home with me.' Politeness wouldn't let me refuse, and so I went. I'd been in the house but a minute when I heard considerable of knocking at the door. I know'd the chap wanted to get in, whoever he was, or he wouldn't have kept up such a tremendous racket. By-and-by says a voice: 'If you don't open, I'll bust in the door.' And so he did. I put on a bold face, and, says I 'Stranger, does this woman belong to you?' Says he, 'She does.' 'Then' says I 'she's a lady, I think, from all that I have seen of her.'

With that he came at me with a pistol in one hand and a bowie-knife in the other, and being a little pressed for room, I jumped through the window, leaving the bigger portion of my coat tail. As I was stroking it down street, with a fragment fluttering to the breese, I met a friend I knew he was a friend by a remark he made. Says he, 'Go it, bob-tail; he's gainin' on you.' And that's the way I got in your engine-room. I'm a good swimmer, Captain, but do excuse me if you please from taking the water."

Memory of the Elephant.—A female elephant, belonging to a gentleman in Calcutta, being ordered from the upper county to Chotygone, by chance broke loose from his keeper, and was lost in the woods. The excuses which the keeper made were not admitted. It was supposed that he had sold the elephant; his wife and family, therefore, were sold for slaves and he himself was condemned to work upon the high roads. About twelve years afterwards this man was ordered up in the country to assist in catching the wild elephants. The keeper fancied he saw his long lost elephant in a group that was up before him. He was determined to go up to it, nor could the strongest representations of the great danger dissuade him from his purpose. When he approached the creature she knew him; and giving him three salutes by waving her trunk in the air; she then knelt and received him on her back. She afterwards assisted him in securing other elephants, and likewise brought with her three young ones which she had produced during her absence. The keeper recovered his character, and as a recompense for his sufferings and intrepidity, had an annuity settled on him for life. This elephant was afterwards in the possession of Governor Hastings.

One of the sex writes, rather spicily, "that though a few American ladies live in idleness, the majority as yet work themselves into early graves—giving the men an opportunity to try two or three in the course of their own vigorous lives, has enjoyed on this coast an uninterrupted success of fourteen years, and has become one of the renowned Hospitals of the age. What the celebrated Lock Hospital is to London, and the no less renowned establishment of Ricord is to Paris, this Institute has become to the Pacific coast. The thousands annually received and cured place it in point of number of patients among the very first of the world, and the success of its treatment ranks it second to none.

THIS CELEBRATED INSTITUTE

PRIVATE DISEASES IN MALE and IRREGULARITIES IN FEMALES are the great destroyers of health They insidiously attack the system and gradually undermine and destroy it; they drive the bloom from the cheek, the lustre from the eye, the strength from the frame; they give to the world puny and diseased offspring, and poison, through successive generations the race of man. The marks can be seen in Scrofula, Consumption, Cripples, the Idiotic, the Paralytic, the Insane, etc.

There is no more terrible scourge to the human race than those diseases arising from the contamination of Venerial Poison. The mildest forms, by retreating to the blood, hold over the afflicted one, the destruction that is liable at any moment to fall and blight—to utterly destroy—all earthly hopes.

MERCURY, recognized as the most fatal medical enemy to man, combining with the Venereal, doubles its dangers. Those who have been treated with that pernicious mineral poison are not cured; the disease has only assumed a new form.

Do not be Satisfied with Partial Cures that leave the poison to crawl through the system, eating its way into the tissues and organs beneath the apparently smooth surface, to burst out in the future with a virulence that will baffle the effects of medicine. WHEN PERFECT CURES can be obtained by consulting a physician whom long practice and thorough investigation into the causes of DISEASES of the URINARY ORGANS enables to determine at once the nature of the disease.

In all cases entrusted to the Doctor's care, PERFECT SPEEDY and PERMANENT,

Cures are always Guaranteed.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS OR SPERMATORRHŒA.

The young man who experiences that growing weakness in his muscular and mental organization should stop to consider whence it arises. He will find in the weakness of the back, trembling of the limbs, disordered digestion unaccountable failing of the powers of the mind, distaste for society, dread of impending troubles, foreboddings of evil, sleeplessness, troubled and lascivious dreams, accompanied by growing deafness, loss of muscular power, and numerous other symptons of disorganization, the positive traces of that most terrible and destructive of all diseases Seminal Weakness—wasting away his powers, destroying his hope of life and manhood, and dragging him along the broken path of his existence towards a premature and loathsome grave. To him who finds his life dribbling out in the discharge of the vital principle of existence in nocturnal and diurnal emissions, the mere cessation of its appearance brings no assurance of relief.

Marriage, that holy office, the safeguard and hope of manhood, brings to such an one no hope of cure, but adds to his misery in the knowledge that the one who looks to him for so much of her happiness, is a victim to his evil, and an innocent companion of his punishment He adds to his misery and disorder until hope leaves him. There is no resene except in proper and skilful treatment. Consult then, at once, a physician whom long practice and careful research has made thoroughly conversant with every phase of the disease. Those who have become the victims of solitary vices, that dreadful, fascinating and destructive habit, which fills thousands of sick-rooms with paralytics and consumptives, and hundreds of untimely graves with its misguided victims, should consult, without a moment's delay, one who will sympathize with their sufferings. To such the Doctor would especially address himself, giving to each and all assurance of a PERFECT and PERMANENT CURE, without hindrance to business, change of diet, or fear of exposure.

Do not forget the address. See below.

Important to Females.

When a female is in trouble or afflicted with disease and requires medical or surgical assistance, the enquiry should be, Where is there a physician who is fully competent to administer relief, and whose respectable standing in society recommends him to the confidence of the community? The Doctor understanding how imperatively necessary these requirements are, feels called upon to interpose, and by the attention of the afflicted to the fact that he has been a Professor of Obstetrics and Female Diseases for twenty years, and is fully qualified to administer in all cases, both medically and surgically, not in a superficial manner, but in as thorough a manner as years of study and practice—both in hospitals and private families—can make, to save them from the hands of the unqualified, unscrupulous and designing. Therefore families can rely upon him as upon a father. All in affliction can find in him one who will feel and sympathize with and befriend them in trouble—one in whose secrecy the utmost confidence can be placed. Consultation by letter or otherwise, FREE. See address below.

The Celebrated Female Remedies, compounded from the private prescription of Dr. Young, have now obtained a most extended popularity, and are correctly viewed to be the safest and surest remedies for the complaints for which they are applied. The constantly accruing testimonials of their efficacy declare them to be pre-eminently superior in their action. No lady should be without these Renovating Agents. None genuine unless procured at this office.

RHEUMATISM.

Throughout this Coast a great deal of suffering is experienced from Rhuematism. Weeks and even months of protracted and aggravated misery is endured by the victims of medical insufficiency and ignorance, which could be cured just as speedily as was Mr. Spanagel, whose testimony is given below, and is only the echo of hundreds of other cases. Dr. Bourne cures without medicines, which accounts for his extraordinary successes.—No. 10 Masonic Temple, Post street entrance.

San Francisco, September 6, 1861.

Dr. Bourne:—Last winter I was nearly dead, by an attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I suffered the most excruciating pains for about five weeks, without any hope of relief, when a friend hearing of my illness, called to see me, and assured me that if I would stop 'drugging and dosing,' and go to you, that you would have me walking about the streets in three days. Sure enough, although I was utterly helpless, and the entire distance to your house (nearly a mile) and home again, and so on until cured. I felt myself a well man. And now I am happy to do you this little service of publicly certifying to the simple truth, leaving it to do its work among my friends and acquaintances as may chance to see this.

Your friend, JOSEPH SPARROW.

CONSUMPTION.

An Interesting Letter.

Very few persons, even among physicians, would have been willing upon any terms to have been in the condition of the writer of the following letter on the 14th of February last. I will anticipate somewhat the course of the facts by saying that on the 15th of August last he made me a visit, "the very picture of health." Time, which tries and proves all things, has sufficiently tested this case, and shown that neither relapse nor consequences have followed; the cure is perfect; and can be cited among the scores of similar cases the result of my improved mode of treating diseases without medicine.

G. M. BOURNE,
Water Cure Physician,
No. 10 Masonic Temple, Post street

Sacramento, April 30, 1865.

Dr. G. M. Bourne—Dear Sir:—It is with pleasure and satisfaction that I now let you know of my good health. Looking back upon what I have passed through, it seems as if I had been lifted from the grave, and I think it my duty to acknowledge to you and the world the benefit I derived from water treatment as administered by you in your celebrated baths. It was in August, 1864, when I took medicides, getting worse with fever, loss of strength, and was pronounced consumptive. This led me to thinking, and finally I determined to leave my business and go to the Sandwich Islands, having been informed that I could not be cured here. I went to San Francisco, and while walking on Montgomery street, I called upon Dr. Bourne, who stated that a trip to the Islands would probably result disastrously, was wholly unnecessary, as I could be speedily cured at his establishment. I placed myself under his treatment, and in one week was so improved I thought I could leave returning home and do my duty as Engineer on the Central Pacific Railroad. The Doctor objected, but I thought I knew better, and returned to duty. In about two weeks my cough returned, and I kept getting worse, and contrary to Dr. Bourne's injunction never to take medicine again, committed that folly, and soon completely run down that I could scarcely walk; so, as a last resort, concluded once more to try the Water Cure. I went to San Francisco—few of my friends expecting me to return; in fact, I thought myself doubtful. On arriving at Dr. Bourne's establishment (February 4th, 1865,) I was not able to get into the bath without assistance, but in a few days I began to recover myself again. I remained with him only six weeks, when I felt "a wiser and better man," without the aid of medicine. I have now been at work several weeks, and find that I am gaining every day, and at present bid fair to be stouter than ever before. Persons visiting the Doctor's establishment find it just what it should be, both in the Ladies' and Gentlemens' Departments, and I cannot say too much in praise of the Doctor's kind attentions to his patients.

This letter I write for the benefit of all the afflicted, to be used as the Doctor desires, and should it be the means of directing any one to the Doctor seeking ease, (as they assuredly will) find relief, I will be paid for my trouble. JAMES CAMPBELL,
Engineer Central Pacific Railroad.

San Francisco, August 22, 1865.

Advised by the undersigned, Mr. James Campbell, of the Central Pacific Railroad, (who was then in a most deplorable state of ill health,) placed himself under the care of Dr. Bourne, the Water Cure Physician. Some 4 months afterwards he visited the city, when I accidentally met him at Dr. Bourne's establishment, and am happy to say, restored to the enjoyment of good health, and in fine spirits. JOHN SULLIVAN.

☞ Dr. Bourne treats all diseases of the throat, chest and lungs—which includes diphtheria, bronchitis, incipient consumption, pleurisy, croup, etc.—with greatest success. Great relief is afforded in advanced stages of consumption. Rheumatism, paralysis, neuralgia, fever and ague, dropsy, etc., are also cured quickly, pleasantly and economically. No medicine whatever.

Confirmation Strong of an Interesting Letter.

Sacramento, November 23, 1865.

Dear Doctor:—I received your letter a few days since asking for my photograph, which I will attend to as soon as convenient. At present I am very busy, on account of the stormy weather, being out at all times, both night and day, and am enjoying very good health, apprehending no danger, if properly careful, as every one should be. I have read my letter in the "Call" and other papers, and have been asked several times concerning it, and whether it is correct, and I say I can vouch for its contents, and more if required, and so can a great many others who knew me at the time.

I remain your friend, JAMES CAMPBELL.

To Dr. Bourne, San Francisco.

Dr. Bourne takes the liberty to publish the above as many persons had prophesied his relapse into his former condition, on returning to his duties, of the writer of "An Interesting Letter," whose statements concerning the cure of a well defined case of consumption have recently attracted so much attention to the Water Cure, as improved upon and practiced by Dr. Bourne. This additional testimony must prove satisfactory to all reasonable minds. It should be remembered that Dr. Bourne uses no medicines whatever, and that his patients almost universally are those who failed to receive relief from the medical practitioners; yet they are cured with great rapidity, and in a pleasant and agreeable manner No. 10, Masonic Temple, Post street entrance. jy14 3m

DR. J. H. JOSSELYN,

IMPORTANT

MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

ELECTRICITY AS A CURATIVE AGENT

When it was promulgated by the Directors of the Electropathic Institute that disease could be entirely eradicated from the system without the use of poisonous druge the thoughtless and those who do not look deeply into cause and effect scouted the assertion as chimerical, and wrote articles replete with sophistry, claiming that only through the digestive system could the blood be purged of the poisons which constitute disease; a great cry went up from those interested in the continued supremacy of the old system of one poison to cure another. All of the empirics joined in the chorus, and in their ignorance laughed at the new system, circulating base stories of its ill success, and quoting imaginary cases as proofs. Time has demonstrated their dishonesty. After five years of uninterrupted success the Electropathetic system is the leading idea in medical jurisprudence. While by the old system, physicians are contented to cure one in every five cases, there were those who were diving deep into the science of the curative art; among these were the Electropathists; finally, it was discovered that the failure in most of the cases of organic diseases, was entirely due to the machine. Taking this view of the case, Dr. J. H. Josselyn after years of experiment, has perfected an Electropathic Instrument, which will cure any disease which flesh is heir to, always to be understood that the case is not so far advanced as to show a destruction of the vital tissue. From early morn until late at night, this Instrument is employed, imparting health and vigor to all who are so fortunate as to obtain its services. We do not claim that the use of medicines may not be more advantageous in some cases, but, that in connection with machines, it will perform a cure much sooner than without, and also that diseases hitherto deemed incurable, can be cured by the system, but the Directors desire to take this opportunity to inform invalids that the Resident Physician is a regular graduate and has had large experience in the treatment of disease, both with and without the assistance of electricity; he has also discovered several "elective" Vegetable remedies that will cure almost any name able disease, which he will send with full instructions for use, to any part of the Pacific coast upon a receipt of a complete description of the disease with which the applicant may be afflicted, and will warrant a complete and perfect cure in all cases where the medicines are used according to directions and more especially in all cases of female troubles, where great care and caution are necessary to a favorable result. Disease (which by the old system) took months, and even years to cure, are now cured in a few days or weeks. The cost, is not so great as by the old system, besides the saving of time. Connected with this system are the renowned than which there is no more powerful auxiliary in the world for the radication of disease. There is no institute in the state where the electropathic system is practiced, equal at this

Electropathic Institute,

645 Washington street.

This Institute was established to, if possible prevent the victims from falling into those dens of robbery (yclept quack doctors' traps,) and hereafter the scientific originators of this Institute will not be to blame if the afflicted are robbed of their money, and injured in constitution. There is another view of the affair. The rising generation should be rescued with strong constitutions, and the Directors wish to arouse their guardians to a proper sense of their duties in the premises, impossible to prevent them from stuffing their young charges with deleterious drugs, with a chance of engrafting upon the tender constitution not forming, a complication of evils, a thousand times worse than death.

It would be consuming space, to no purpose, to enumerate the diseases to which this system is applicable, suffice it to say, that there is no disease, within the catalogue of human ills but what can be cured at the Electropathic Institute. We have instructed the Resident Physician to warrant a perfect and permanent cure, or ask no pay for services, when in his judgement it is within the bounds of cure.

CAUTION,

Persons seeking the Electropathic Institute, should be careful to remember the name and number.
